From School Library Journal

Grade 1-3-- This enjoyable time-travel fantasy is a successful beginning chapter book. Jack and his younger sister find a tree house filled with books. When he wishes he could really see the Pteranodon pictured in one of them, it appears at the window. The children have been transported back to the Cretaceous period. They begin to explore and are soon threatened by a Tyrannosaurus. The Pteranodon comes to their rescue, and they figure out enough about the magic that carried them back in time to be able to use it to return home. There is plenty of suspense and magic here, and enough dinosaur information to please science buffs. Characterization is sketchy and older children will find the plot predictable, but readers just past the easy-to-read stage will find it satisfying. It should attract those who devour Ruth Chew's books. --Louise L. Sherman, Anna C. Scott School, Leonia, NJ

Illus. in black-and-white. "With an entertaining blend of fact, farce, and fantasy, Osborne tells the story of Jack and his sister, Annie, who take a trip in a magic tree house and land in a time 65 million years ago. They find dinosaurs and volcanoes and adventure. Veteran storyteller Osborne builds the power of reading into the story: it's the books in the tree house that give the kids the magic to travel and see far, far away."--

Perfect for my almost 2nd grader

By snowfire555

I bought this book after a recommendation from a friend for my daughter who will be going into second grade after summer. I wanted to get some new books to keep her reading over the summer, but at the right reading level for her. This is the first chapter book she has read on her own (I sit with her but she does all the reading) and she can get 90% of the words no problem, 5% with some guidance and the other 5% I have to tell her. I think that perfect for her developing a better vocabulary while not being too challenging.

My only complaint is that the author writes with a ton of run-on sentences. Like this one. It's clearly to show the character's train-of-thought, but with sentence structure being so important at this age, my daughter was super confused at first.

Overall, I'd definitely recommend for a reader just getting into chapter books.

Great series for early readers.

My 7-year-old granddaughter reads at about a 3rd grade level. She loved this book. She looks forward to reading more about Jack & Annie's adventures. She did struggle to pronounce the dinosaur species names, but she is only 7. I'll definitely encourage her to stick with this series.
